

Teacher's Commitment

As your partner, I agree to work with you and your child in creating successful learning experiences by:

- Encouraging your child's unique capabilities and interests
- Integrating language arts, math, and science throughout the curriculum to nurture your child's love of language, science, mathematics, and lifelong learning
- Sharing stories and books with your child each day
- Creating a classroom environment where your child can learn the importance of books and print as well as respecting and taking care of books at the center
- Giving your child opportunities to express ideas and see those ideas recorded in print, as a way to begin to explore the excitement of the written word
- Encouraging your child to develop speaking and listening skills through daily conversations.
- Encouraging your child's natural curiosity about the world by providing experiences and rich environments to explore
- Communicating with you regularly about our curriculum and about your child's learning and interests, and welcoming your communication in return
- Inviting you to participate in center activities on a regular basis
- Sharing suggestions for at-home activities that support your involvement and extend your child's learning